Raider Review

By Jane Guill

Who says a girl isn't as athletic as a boy? This old cliche has been repeated many times, but it has never been proven. Never until this Saturday night.

Bragg Stadium will be lit, the band will be playing, the crowd will be cheering, and down on the field, girls will be playing powder puff football.

Powder puff football is a football game with girls playing instead of boys. The rules of the game are similar to that of regular play. One major difference is the girls will be playing flag football instead of tackle.

The freshmen and seniors are on one team, and the sophmores and juniors make up the other team.

Another old cliche of girls being meaner than boys may just hold true in football. Rhonda Carter, a freshman at ACHS tells of a humorous experience at practice. "Two girls started fussing, almost fighting, just over a broken fingernail," explained Rhonda. The girls that do have extra long fingernails have been asked to cut them for obvious reasons.

The two teams have had three practices so far to prepare for the big game. Coach Chris Dunnam, who coaches the sophomore-junior team said, "Sometimes the girls are to prissy, the hardest thing is getting them to understand and follow directions.

So far the biggest problem has been teammates running into each other. Kim Carter, a senior, had a swollen nose as a result of a crash with another team mate. Kim commented, "We are real mean women, just watch out for Dingy."

Tonia McCoy, a freshman, said she was playing because it was fun. She agreed with Kim by saying, "We are real mean and rough too."

Susan Johnson, a senior, plays the position of quarterback for the senior-freshman team. "I have never seen such big women coming at me. It looks like charging bulls. It scares me too!" said Susan.

Tommy Smith, Cornelius Davis, and Chris Dunnam are the coaches for the sophomore-junior team, and Roy Trent, Ron Carter, and Mike Rosser coach the senior-freshman team.

Everyone involved in this game said they were doing it because it was fun, but being girls and playing football can mean different things.

Tambra Hamlett, a sophomore said she was playing football because, "it give her a good feeling knowing she can do something a guy can do."

Allison Peters, a sophomore, is convinced her team will win. "We noticed we are doing a lot extra such as laps and exercises, this will show on the night of the game.

Coach Chris Dunnam is sure the sophomore-junior team will win because "they are smart girls."

Coach Ron Carter is sure his team will win. "We already know what plays we are going to run, we are just perfecting them now."

The big showdown will be Saturday night at 7:30 at Bragg Stadium. The girls will be geared up and ready to go. Best of luck to both teams, and may the best WOMEN win.

FBLA holds yearly awards banquet

The FBLA Spring Banquet for the 1981-82 school year was held May 11 in the ACHS cafeteria. The meeting was called to order by President, Terri Nash.

After our meal, Mike McCoy, a sophomore at Appomattox County High School, provided the entertainment for the evening.

Special awards were given to members of FBLA for their participation in the Longwood Region Spring Conference. Mitzi Baldwin presented advisor, Mrs. Ann Cook, who will not be returning to the faculty next year, with a special gift of appreciation. All advisors were presented with sterling-silver letter openers to thank them for their leadership throughout the year.

Mr. Carter has assisted with local, regional, and state conferences, helped in preparing students for competitive events, and "always been there when we needed him."

Following Terri Nash's farewell address, Mitzi Baldwin, 1982-83 FBLA president, adjourned the meeting.

Crop acreage reports due

By Tom Conrad

Acreage reports due

This is the last full week for wheat, barley and oat producers to timely report their planted acreages to the ASCS office.

There has been a lot of reporting in the last couple of weeks, however, there are still a lot of farmers that need to report. One concern is that farmers who signed earlier in the program may think they completed reporting requirements at that time. This is not the case. At the time they signed to participate, they did not report acreages. All that was done was to indicate intention to participate. These people still need to report planted acreages. By not reporting planted acreages, they will be dropped from the program.

Farmers who have wheat, barley and/or oat bases but are not in the program are asked to report so that their bases can be preserved. By not reporting, their bases will be reduced.

Farmers who do not have bases on their farms for the crops mentioned but have planted acreages are asked to report so that bases can be established for the farm for future program purposes.

Annual meeting date set by flue-cured co-op

Billy W. Hill, president of Flue-cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corporation, and Fred G. Bond, the CO-OP's General Manager have jointly announced that the 36th Annual Membership of the CO-OP will be held May 28, 1982. The meeting will be a the Kerr Scott Pavilion, located at the North Carolina State Fairgrounds, Raleigh, N. C., beginning at 10:00 a.m. and adjourning around 12:00 noon. A complimentary barbecue lunch will be served to all in attendance.

Featured speakers for this year's meeting will be Congressman Charles G. Rose, III and Congressman Charles O. Whitley.

Congressman Charles Rose (D-NC) is chairman of the Tobacco Subcommittee of the House Agriculture Committee, and has the reputation in Congress of being a leader and innovator. A native of Fayetteville, N. C., he is a graduate of Davidson College and the School of Law at the University of North Carolina. Congressman Rose was first elected to Congress in November 1972. It has been stated that Rose was the chief architect of the coalition in the House that voted to save the tobacco program last November.

Congressman Charles Whitely (D-NC) is a native of Siler City, N. C. He received his bachelors degree and law degree from Wake Forest University. From 1960-1976, he was Administrative Assistant to the former Third District Congressman, David Henderson. Congressman Whitley was elected to Congress in 1976, and serves on the House Agriculture Committee and its subcommittee on tobacco and peanuts. He holds many leadership roles in Congress and is a strong supporter of the tobacco program.

In addition to the featured speakers, the Annual Report of the President and the Operational Report of the General Manager will be presented.

TERRI NASH PRESENTS Richard B. Carter a plaque representing his recognition as Honorary Lifetime Member of the Future Business Leaders of America.

Keep small kitchen appliances clean

Keep Small Kitchen Appliances Clean

Routine attention for small kitchen appliances saves time and effort. From the time honored toaster to the multi-purpose food processor, portable kitchen appliances are a wonderful aide in food preparation. Give them the care they so deserve and each will perform well for a longer period of time.

Please use your use-care booklet when using your appliances. Read this booklet carefully before using any new appliance. Keep and use and care manuals handy for quick reference. Check instructions before operating an infrequently used appliance or during an operation with one that you are not familiar with.

Most appliances should be cleaned after each use. If only wipe away chromes or greasy spots, this is good care. Always disconnect the cord before cleaning with a damp cloth. Allow hot surfaces to cool thoroughly before cleaning.

Wash immersable parts in warm sudsy water. Rinse and dry thoroughly before storing or putting parts back together. Do not put an appliance into water unless the manufacturer states it is safe to do so. If a fry pan, deep fryer, slow cooker, coffee pot or other appliance is non-immersable, wash at the sink with a sudsy sponge or cloth, rinse carefully under the running water, using very sure water does not get into the electrical connections. If it does, this can cause the electrical connections to deteriorate over a period of time. Wipe motor casings and exteriors of mixers, blenders, toasters, ovens, food processors and the like with a damp sponge. Polish with a soft cloth. Wiping the interior of a portable oven after each use helps to prevent grease build-up.

Cleaning is generally easy if done promptly. Even stubborn stains respond quickly to rubbing with a steel wood soap pad. For non-stick surfaces, use a nylon pad and avoid abrasive cleansers. The same rule applies to shiny and enamel finishes. Allowing food particles to harden or grease to build up makes cleaning much more difficult and time consuming.

Non-stick finishes should be seasoned before initial use. Wash, rinse and dry. Then rub the surface with unsalted shortening or cooking oil. With repeated use, these finished may stain. To remove stains, treat with any one of the following solutions: ¼ cup coffee pot cleaner in 1 quart of water or 3 tablespoons of oxygen bleach, 1 teaspoon light-duty liquid detergent in 1 cup of water, or 3 tablespoons of dishwasher detergent in 1 cup of water. Let the solution simmer in the stained pan for 15 to 20 minutes or until the pan looks fairly clean. Wash thoroughly, rinse and dry. Then reseason.

To clean the stains and discolorations from aluminum interiors, do the following: Add 2 to 3 tablespoons of cream of tartar, lemon juice or vinegar to 1 quart of water and boil in the utensil for 5 to 10 minutes. Then lightly sour with a steel wool soap pad. For a coffee maker, fill with the solution listed above and put in through the brewing cycle. You can also use a special coffee pot cleaner. The other remedy is much less expensive though.

The interior of a blender with its sharp blades can be cleaned speedily and safely. Fill half-way with warm water. Add a drop or two of liquid dishwashing detergent. Cover and turn to low speed for a few seconds. Wash the exterior, rinse and take apart to dry thoroughly. This method can also be used to clean the chopping blade in a food processor. A small utility brush can also be used to coax crumbs from a toaster or toaster oven. An old clean toothbrush can also do the same and cost less than a utility brush.

Be sure to use safety common sense when using appliances. Avoid using appliances in an area where it might slip or be knocked over into the water. Keep cords from dangling over the counter top. Avoid overloading electrical circuits, using multiple outlets or long extension cords.

Make it a habit to turn the appliance to off when plugging in or disconnecting. Appliances with detachable cords should be plugged into the unit first and then the wall outlet. Reverse procedure to disconnect. Grasp the plug to pull rather than yank the cord.

If you have a homemaking question or problem, you may call us at 352-8244 or you may write us at P. O. Box 488, Appomattox, Va. 24522. It is always a pleasure to hear from you and to help you.

Happiness is 4-H

By Frank W. Sweet
Extension Agent

Over eighty 4-H'ers have already signed up to attend this summers 4-H Camp at Holiday Lake. The deadline for turning in applications is June 11. Camp class forms and health forms are being given out as applications come in to the Extension Office. 4-H'ers are asked to return their health forms and class forms as soon as possible.

The annual 4-H Dog Show is scheduled for Tuesday, June 1, beginning at 6:30 p.m. on the football field behind Appomattox Middle School. 4-H'ers may enter mixed breed or purebred dogs in the show. In case of rain, the dog show will be on Wednesday, June 2, at the same time and place. You are invited to come and join the fun. Awards will be provided by Lawson Ford, Inc.

From time to time we have inquiries from 4-H members or parents about starting new 4-H community clubs. To begin a 4-H community club there are several requirements. First, there is the need for dedicated 4-H parents who are willing to work with a group of young people as volunteer leaders. Also, a group of young people who would like to start a community 4-H club would be required.

The first step toward forming a new community 4-H group would be a meeting of interested parents with one of the Extension Agents. More details can be obtained from the Appomattox Extension Office at 352-8244. Please call us if you have questions.

All 4-H programs as well as other programs sponsored by the Virginia Cooperative Extension Service are available to all people regardless of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, handicap or political affiliation.

The Mini Swine Camp will be held this coming Saturday, May 29, beginning at 9:30 a.m. at the Five County Fairgrounds in Farmville. An exciting program is planned to help young people and their families learn about raising market hogs. Please call the Extension Office at 352-8244 if you have questions.

Plans have been developed to teach summer 4-H sewing classes at three locations. They are as follows: Appomattox County High School (June 28-July 2); Oakville School (July 12-16), and Pamplin Elementary School (July 19-23). These classes will be available to young people who are interested in learning to develop sewing skills.

Good news for homemakers

Watch the corn closely

By James A. Smith

Corn growers will need to watch their corn closely. The dry weather of early May could adversely affect the activity of herbicides. Last week I saw some corn that needs to be cultivated. this will vary with soil type and whether or not the herbicide was incorporated.

Voles or pine mice can be very destructive. We had three calls about this rodent in one week. They can reach high populations in a short period of time. They feed on plant roots-roses, fruit trees and similar plants are favorites.

Trapping with mouse traps is the only recommended control for the home owner. Dig to find these "runs" and set a trap-no bait necessary. Cover trap with a roofing shingle or similar material in a convex position-cover openings so no light enters. Heavy trapping is necessary for success. Use twelve or more traps for a small area, 1000 to 2000 square feet. When voles are no longer trapped, move trap sets to another area of the home grounds.

Frequently holes 1 to 1¼ inch diameter can be seen. Often as many as one hole per square yard are found.

This may be a new problem we will have to contend with.

Poisons that are available to the commercial orchardist are restricted use pesticides and are very hazardous to cats and dogs.

How does one control poison ivy? 2, 4-D at the rate of 3 tablespoons per gallon of water does an excellent job.

Be sure a course spray is used and no susceptible plants are close by.

Don't use a sprayer that will later be used in the garden, on tobacco or grapes. Read the label.

Heel flies have had cattle moving for the past few weeks. Unfortunately the ear tag that is so effective against other flies gives no control to the heel fly.

It's a reminder now, that a grub treatment should go on cattle in August.

Brucellosis (Bangs) hasn't completely disappeared. A heavily infected herd was found two weeks ago just across the Appomattox County line.

It is estimated that there are 1805 replacement dairy and beef heifers in Appomattox County. My concern is that only 313 head, 17 percent, have been calfhood vaccinated between January and April, 1982.

The State is still paying veterinarians $2.00 a head to vaccinate heifers. Don't let down-call your vet today and arrange to have all heifers vaccinated between the ages of 4 and 12 months.

Mt. Pleasant

We thank God for blessing us with such a good rain.

The Golden Trumpeteers of Appomattox will sing at Mt. Pleasant Baptist Church in Pamplin on Saturday, May 29, at 7 p.m.

The public is cordially invited to attend and enjoy this gospel singing.
